As one of our city region’s largest employers and workplaces we have been able to prioritise a range of work to meet SDG8, SDG10, SDG11, SDG12, SDG13 and SDG16 through our campus operations, policies and processes. For example, we are living wage accredited employer (SDG8), a top ranking institution for LGBT-inclusivity, hold quality marks for gender, disability and racial equality (SDG10), enact responsible methods of procurement (SDG12) and investment (SDG16) and have made a commitment to zero carbon in-line with Manchester’s 2038 goal (SDG 11/13).

“Social responsibility is a core goal of our university, and by becoming accredited with the LWF we have a real opportunity to influence policy in a national forum and have conversations about the benefits that good pay and working conditions bring to individuals and wider society.”

President and Vice-Chancellor Professor Dame Nancy Rothwell

BENEFITS

1. This shows the connection between local action on campus and global goals e.g. the effect of procurement on global supply chains
2. This has ensured that our University can turn a mirror on to itself in how operate responsibly

Universities around the world are some of the largest employers, spenders and place-makers in their cities and regions. This means that as well as creating impact through our traditional functions such as research and teaching, we can also make significant impact through the way we operate. We recommend:

- A strong focus on employment practices such as the recruitment of local talent into non-academic roles and paying beyond minimum legal requirements
- Engaging in best-practice to support the equality and diversity of staff and students
- Linking the work of our universities to wider city-region targets to decarbonise energy and transport
- Using procurement to support the development of thriving social enterprises and SMEs that are addressing the SDGs through their own operations.
