AIMS FOR TODAY

- Context and background
- Rationale for a curriculum audit
 - Discussion: what have you tried?
- Overview of our approach
 - Attempting to embed the SDGs in all undergraduate modules!
- Learning through the process
 - Discussion: how might you attempt to conduct your own audit?
- Next steps

BACKGROUND

- The University of Winchester and Winchester Student Union have a joint commitment to ensuring all students, regardless of course, learn about climate change, social justice, and sustainability as part of their studies at Winchester. The curriculum audit is attempting to understand how well the University is doing this.
- Through a curriculum audit, we're trying to find out which modules are currently including sustainability topics and methods – whether that's gender equality or poverty, climate action or renewable energy, diversity or peace and justice.
- We're looking at the UN Sustainable Development Goals and trying to find out which of the 17 goals are taught in our courses at Winchester.

CLIMATE CHANGE EDUCATION

- In December 2016 the University of Winchester launched a long term strategy to ensure by 2021 every graduate will have learnt about and explored issues relevant to climate change.
- Climate change education will be made available, accessible and relevant for all undergraduates, whatever their chosen subject, so that the success and hallmark of being a Winchester graduate will include an appreciation of three key issues:
 - the affect on social justice,
 - the ubiquitous impact
 - and, above all, the urgency of the challenges presented by climate change.

Climate Change Education at the University of Winchester - A Five Year Strategy 2016-2021
16-17/SMT109
7th November 2016
updated 4/11/16

"Parties shall cooperate in taking measures, as appropriate, to enhance climate change education, training, public awareness, public participation and public access to information, recognising the importance of these steps with respect to enhancing actions under this Agreement."
UN Global Climate Agreement reached in Paris, December 2015

Vice-Chancellor's Introduction

In the University of Winchester's 2015-2020 strategic plan we commit to reflect on "the most urgent problems facing humankind" and ask, "What are our responsibilities, given our focus on values-driven higher education?"

"And no challenge - no challenge - poses a greater threat to future generations than climate change."
Barack Obama, State of the Union Speech 2015

Our vision for embedding climate change education across the university by 2021 is an ambitious and exciting practical application of those commitments.

We want to inspire all our students and staff to engage together to learn about and explore the extensive range of issues generated by climate change.

WHY AUDIT THE CURRICULUM AT WINCHESTER?

- Building on a previous qualitative audit
- Identify existing good practice
- Open up a discussion with academics, deans, and across faculties
- Establish a quantitative baseline
- Measure progress over time
- Replicable

DISCUSSION

- 1) Have you done a curriculum audit?
- 2) If so, how? Did you engage students?
- 3) In doing a curriculum audit, what did you (/would you) hope to achieve?

Divergent views can be shared and explored in a safe environment (debate and discussion)	There are opportunities for deep and critical reflection on students' own perspectives and what has influenced their thinking and practices in this area (transformative learning rather than transactional, personal changes through module)	Democratic and participatory learning approaches are modelled (creating your own learning , working alongside staff)	Interdisciplinary approaches , systems thinking and holistic thinking are encouraged (cross over disciplines and understanding different influences - non-linear learning)	Teaching, learning and assessment activities are linked to real-life concerns (relevance today, linking to current events)	Case studies	Stimulus activities	Simulation	Experiential project work	Problem-based learning

REPORTING BACK

- Producing faculty-specific reports which will be shared with the Dean of each faculty and then disseminated through the faculty, providing staff with the opportunity to feedback
- Supporting teaching staff to take further steps: including ESD in the PGCert, the Learning and Teaching Conference, and through 'Learning Lunches'
- Working with the Academic Quality team to further embed ESD within the programme (re)validation and module descriptor guidance documents and procedures
- Reporting findings back to the Senate Academic Development Committee

REFLECTIONS SO FAR...

- We've identified modules where we know there is good practice but it is not captured in the module descriptor. We're engaging with faculties to ensure this is included in order to:
 - Future-proof and share good practice
 - Ensure students can clearly see how sustainability links to the module and understand how it relates to their learning outcomes
- Students have really enjoyed it
 - Skills development
 - Ownership
 - Making a tangible impact at the university

NEXT STEPS

- Repeating every three years
- Community of practice
- Learning lunches and workshops
- Validation process
- Highlighting good practice
- University-Wide SDG strategy
- Pursuing Responsible Futures accreditation

YOUR JOURNEY

- 1) How might a curriculum audit help advance Education for Sustainable Development at your institution?
Would it be beneficial to include students in leading an audit at your institution?

- 2) What other tools are you currently using to advance ESD?

FUTURE OPPORTUNITIES

COLLABORATIONS FOR CHANGE

Global Goals for Tomorrow's Education, Today
19TH ~ 21ST JUNE 2018 KEELE UNIVERSITY

GLOBAL GOALS MAPPING

A support package for mapping the UN Sustainable Development Goals across the formal curriculum through a student-led audit. Including training for student auditors to enable them to audit of the curriculum and facilitation of a follow-up report.

Benefits include:

- Developing skills for students;
- Linking the Global Goals to other initiatives within the institution and/or students' union
- Engaging teaching staff;
- Reporting on the Global Goals.
