Description:

Network for and by lecturers from the social work programme and interested parties from the field. The learning network is aimed at building and exchanging knowledge about the integration of sustainable development into the curricula of the social work programme. It seeks to:

- integrate sustainable development into the curricula of social work programmes;
- integrate sustainable development into the job profile of social workers;
- attune the practice of social work and its organisations to sustainable development.

The interaction between lecturers from social work programmes and the field is very important in this context.
