- Unionlearn: 'Greener Deals: Negotiating on Environmental Issues at Work' "The Carbon Trust estimates that each year £2.4 billion, 21% of the total spent by UK businesses on energy, is wasted and that most businesses could easily save between 10-20% of their energy costs through simple low-cost and cost-free measures. But, to do this, workers and communities on the ground must be involved. They will not be able to deliver changes if they don't understand and support the reasons why they are being introduced
- IFL Green Economy Survey: A survey of teachers and trainers, members of the Institute for Learning (IfL); March 2011 There is "clear enthusiasm and interest from teachers and trainers to include green skills more in teaching. This needs to be supported by organisations so that teachers and trainers are given time to share practice in updating their own green skills and methods for integrating into teaching...
